Commissions: 1099-NEC (NonEmployee Compensation) 2023 Tax Information

Important information about 1099-NEC forms:

- Form 1099-NEC (NonEmployee Compensation) will be filed for each person who is paid at least $600 in commissions in 2023. This includes all product lines.
- A 1099-NEC will be filed for each person who is paid at least $600 in commissions in 2023. This includes all product lines. Some payments are not required to be reported on this form, although they may be taxable to the recipient. Per IRS guidelines, there is no requirement to issue a 1099-NEC form for earnings under $600 in a calendar year. In addition, there is no requirement to issue a 1099-NEC form to corporations. Therefore, Genworth will not issue a 1099-NEC form if total earnings were less than $600 in a calendar year nor will a 1099-NEC be issued to corporations. Please seek the advice of your Tax Advisor should you have any questions.
- 1099-NEC statements will be available electronically to all producers currently receiving 1099 statements and those who are registered users of Genworth.com/Pro. Please note: If you opted in previously to receive electronic 1099s, you do not need to opt in again.
- For producers who do not opt for an electronic version, the 1099-NEC forms will be mailed directly to each person at their resident address, if one is on file, no later than January 31, 2024.

If you are not currently registered on Genworth.com/Pro, we encourage you to register now and take advantage of the numerous benefits that the website offers.
